Introductory Paragraph- Argumentative Essay

In Attached to Technology and Paying a Price, by Matt Richtel, it says, “Scientists say juggling email, phone calls, and other incoming information can change how people think and behave. They say our ability to focus is being undermined by bursts of information.” Electronics have a huge impact on the brain, especially those of kids whose brain is still developing in several ways. All students in the school should participate in “Shut Down Your Screen Week,” because using these devices cause students to lose focus, they cause trouble when filtering information, and electronics take time away from family and friends.
